The consecration service of the Episcopal Church is regarded as very impressive. The bishop of the diecese is met at the church door by the cestry of the church, and he and the clergy and choir march up the aisle repeating the 24th Psalm alternately.
Then the certificate or instrument of donation is read. This authorizes the bishop to take the church under his spiritual jurisdiction. Then follows the

"The convention embraces the opportunity," runs the text, "of the presence among us of several distinguished members of the Anglican Episcopate, to give expression to its heartfelt sympathy with the venerable and beloved Church of England in the great tribulation through which she is passing.

"The church from whom we are sprung, and to whose fostering care in our early history we owe so much, must ever be dear to our hearts. We cannot but rejoice in her prosperity and grieve in her adversity. Her burdens and sorrows and losses must of necessity weigh heavily on us also. We cannot be unmoved when her heart is wrung with anguish.

"And so we ask her to accept this utterance of our love and sympathy in this time of her trial, and beg to assure her that our prayers are constantly ascending to Almighty God on her behalf, in humble supplication that in this 'great fight of afflictions' she may be endued with unfailing faith

"The World's Seers"

City, located at Charlevoix, Mich.

The Rev John A. Staunton, jr., of the Church of St. Mary the Virgin, Sagada, in the mountains of Luzon, Philippine Islands, will preach in St. James' Episcopal Church, 8th street near Massachusetts avenue northeast, tomorrow evening, at 7:45 o'clock.

Father Staunton is regarded as one of the most popular and successful of the missionaries of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the orient. As a result of his labors among the natives at Sagada, which is 250 miles northeast of Manila, there are nearly 1,000 native communicants, it is said, under his care.
